

Cross Country Jumps

Name

Description

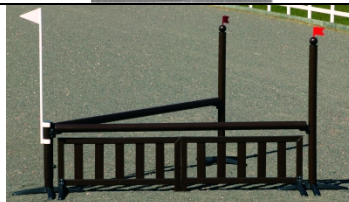

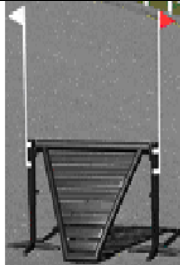

Also called "Upright"
Planks or poles with no
width (spread)

A wide, flat jump

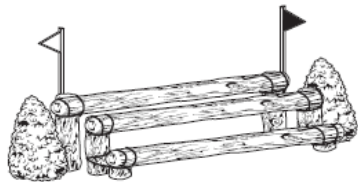

Also called "Chevron"

Reproduction rights obtainable from www.CartoonStock.com

A vertical jump.

Two or more verticals placed, & jumped, together. Also called a "spread" The closest pole the lowest.

Standards not connected.

Three rails all attached to the same standard.

Triangular, widest at bottom. Very common on cross country courses.

Also called a "tiger trap".

Only  $\frac{1}{2}$  of a triangle

Also called "Ramp"

Rails on one side are spread out with standards to look like a fan when viewed from above.

Any jump where your mount will touch the water, either before or after jumping, or both.

Any jump where your mount will jump up or down to another plane.

Rail (log) over a ditch

Distance between the standards is reduced

Two or more obstacles to be jumped as one; usually labeled A and B.

A combination of two or more sets of jumps where the sides are closed in and the only way out is by jumping. Not allowed for D rates.

Created by the Shore Riders Pony Club, Delmarva Region, 2010

Identify these jumps:

